I love the Christmas Season! One reason is the spirit of service that prevails during this time of year.

Several days ago, my college son asked me to help him fix a wireless connection problem with his computer. After quickly exhausting my limited technical service know-how, I called the company tech support hotline. That call ended exactly 2:54 later. That’s two hours and fifty-four minutes!!!

There are only two things that saved the reputation of the company that night:
1) We were watching a football game, so the endless carousel of listening to “hold” music followed by yet another “live voice” passing us on to “hold”, to forward to someone else, didn’t feel like a colossal waste of time; and
2) Sherwin.

Sherwin was the technician who finally took our call seriously, kept us on the line while he diagnosed the problem, talked us through the steps to fix the issue, and ran multiple tests to make sure that the problem was truly fixed. He is a gem for his company and their customers!

Shortly after the computer experience, we took our teenage-driver-car – that old car that you aren’t sure how it still runs, but you keep it for teenage drivers – in for repairs. The repairs were more expensive than hoped for but were necessary for continued use.

The very next day another problem surfaced with the old car, and we took it back to our trusted repair shop. After diagnosing the new problem, the shop owner, Todd, called to tell us that he felt the new problem was the result of his technicians missing something earlier and that this new repair would be done free of charge. He stated that he valued us as long-time customers who have always trusted them to do a job right and with integrity. What a treasured relationship!

Nebo District is filled with people just like Sherwin and Todd – those who are committed to exceptional service each time they work with a student, colleague, or parent – and this spirit of service is demonstrated in our district all throughout the year, not just at Christmastime.

Thank you for your outstanding service and have a Merry Christmas!!!
